Classroom security

There are a number of areas within a school that are vital to protect. While technology, administrative areas, and other capital equipment may be targets in the event of an incident, the most important assets in a school are students, staff, and visitors.

1

Property perimeter

Perimeter protection should deter or prevent those with criminal intent from entering the campus. Property perimeter barriers may include things like fencing, guard houses, shrubbery, sidewalks and lighting.

2

Parking lot

It is important to have a strategy for securing areas beyond the building itself. Exterior areas of focus could include parking lots, walkways, outdoor gathering areas, etc.

3

Building perimeter

When ensuring the security of the building, it is critical that all perimeter doors can be easily locked. All visitors should be funneled to a primary entrance point where a vestibule is in use.
