John Hamilton achieves prestigious DHI award

John Hamilton, DAHC/EHC, FDAI, CPP, received the Distinguished Hardware Consultant award from the Door and Hardware Institute (DHI).

Each year DHI recognizes individuals who give themselves tirelessly to its organization and the industry. The Distinguished Hardware Consultant recognition is based on technical expertise and awarded to nominees that have demonstrated a high degree of technical excellence and standards of performance, contributed to the improvement and promotion of the body of knowledge of the door hardware industry, and/or aided in the technological advancement of the industry.

“I was humbled by the thought that others felt I might be worthy of this prestigious award—even more so when I learned I had been selected to join such an impressive group of consultants. Looking at the list of past recipients of the Distinguished Hardware Consultant honor, you can’t help being in awe of the list. Many of these individuals helped me hone my skills. All have selflessly given back to our industry so others can learn from their expertise. To be included is truly amazing.”

— John Hamilton, DAHC/EHC, FDAI, CPP

This honor is a prestigious accolade in the door hardware industry, and Allegion is thankful to all who devote themselves to cultivating the industry.

Hamilton has worked in the construction industry for 47 years and been a DHI member for 30 years. He’s spent the past 10 years with Allegion and is looked at as a valued resource both internally and externally. Currently John is a project coordinator for the Southwest regional sales office. Prior to this, he was an architectural consultant.

Allegion’s manager of codes and resources, Lori Greene, DAHC/CDC, CCPR, FDAI, FDHI, and specification director, Bill Lawliss, DHT, DAHC, CDC, CCPR, were previously recognized as a Distinguished Hardware Consultants. All have dedicated their time, knowledge and passion to advancing the industry.
