AD Series locks complete changeover to new pack-out design

The conversion to new pack-out designs that was introduced early this year for CO Series now applies to all AD Series locks as well. The project’s overall goal has been to improve the installation experience. This required many changes including revisions to assembly instructions, new packaging materials and labels, and even a restructuring of the product assembly flow at the factory.

BENEFITS

For installers

- Pre-installed standoffs = fewer parts to manage and reduced installation time
- Parts grouped and labeled to follow instruction sequence
- Visually-oriented instructions with better graphics and references to part grouping
- Easier management of small components

For distributors:

- Configurable parts provided in clearly labeled packs for easier exchange
- Visual identifier: outer box label includes message “Packaged for easier installation”

Shipping began late October
