ALLEGION MANAGER OF CODES, RESOURCES LORI GREENE RECOGNIZED BY DHI Joins exclusive group of industry professionals as Distinguished Architectural Hardware Consultant

CARMEL, IND. (June 3, 2015) – Door and Hardware Institute (DHI), an association serving door security and safety professionals, recently honored Allegion Manager of Codes and Resources Lori Greene, DAHC/CDC, CCPR, FDAI, FDHI, with its Distinguished Architectural Hardware Consultant (DAHC) award.

The award is based on technical expertise and is reserved for consultants with more than 10 years as a contributing member to the DHI organization. It also acknowledges those who have demonstrated a high degree of technical excellence and standards of performance as an active DHI consultant, as well as contributed to the improvement and advancements of the door hardware industry.

"I'm honored to become a Distinguished Architectural Hardware Consultant and join a group that includes many of my instructors, mentors and respected industry icons," Greene said. "It has been a pleasure to be part of this organization and have the opportunity to connect with esteemed professionals on the regulatory side of door hardware."

Greene has more than 30 years of door hardware industry experience, focusing largely on support and education around code requirements around the doorway. In 2009, Lori created 'iDigHardware.com', a door hardware, code-specific blog, in which she shares her expertise and answers questions across various code-related topics. Since its creation, it has generated close to two million page views and garnered nearly 500,000 visitors.

Over the years, industry experts have come to rely on Lori for her in-depth technical articles combined with photographs of humorous real-world installations. Her blog has become the 'go to' site for learning and interaction for those in and out of the industry, according to Lisa Goodwin Robbins, RA, CCS, LEED ap, and Lee Johnson, AIA, CSI, LEED ap, of Kalin Associates Inc.
